Brown-Bag Lunch: Future of Work

This keynote represents an internal training over lunch. The goal is to expose your staff to new technological advancements and give you an insight into the potentials of decentralized technologies.

According to a Gallup poll, two out of three employees engage in a rulebook slowdown and one out of seven has already mentally resigned. How can we use new forms of organizations and new technologies for the workplace of the 21st century?

Description

Organizational studies is an old discipline that has received a new set of tools through decentralized technologies. Teams worldwide are researching the most innovative technologies to use in your organization, to automate certain recurring tasks in a reliable and comprehensive way and adapt through restructuring to the new challenges of this century.

Change is of course a delicate process that needs time and starts with understanding the «Why».

You don't need to turn your organization upside down, but having in mind how you can form agile teams and knowing about the latest research in the field of organizational studies is definitely an enabler to think about contemporary challenges.

Our brown-bag lunches shall give your staff an overview, enable them to think about how your company can use these new tools to shape your future and ignite new ideas in your organization.

Syllabus

- Evolution of Organizations:
  From tribes to to Teal Organizations
- (Decentralized) Future of Work
- Distributed Organizations
- Automation and its implications
- Scenario: Digital Feudalism
- Scenario: Digital Commons
- Non-Future of Work

Dezentrum

_

Lessingstrasse 15 8002 Zurich www.dezentrum.ch

Duration 1:15h

Pricing 1500 CHF

Location In your office facilities

Dezentrum

The Think Tank Dezentrum creates positive future scenarios. With bold hypotheses, experiments and our vision Dezentrum is part of the discourse about the digital society of tomorrow.

Signup and Info flurin.hess@dezentrum.ch

